

IMPERIAL PURCHASE

Big Frisco Copper Company Buys Massachusetts.

VALUABLE ACQUISITION

GENERAL MANAGER HUCK ON THE ANNIE LAURIE.

Before leaving for camp last night, Manager A. R. Lewis of the Imperial Copper company released the information that the famous old Massachusetts property in Loeber Gulch, consisting of five patented claims, has just been acquired by the Imperial company, though at what price he was unwilling to say.

The property becomes a valuable addition to the Imperial's holdings for two reasons, one that it is known to contain splendid bodies of rich copper-gold ore, and the other that its lines run within a few hundred feet of the present workings, and permits Manager Lewis to obtain an additional depth on the great ore zone of 25 feet with comparatively little work.

A tunnel for that purpose has already been started and a shaft that will connect it with the present workings and is now being sunk in good ore.

In the main Imperial workings most satisfactory progress is being made. During the past two months fifteen carloads of high-grade copper-gold ore has been marketed, and experts who have recently examined the mine have declared that sufficient ore is now in sight to warrant the erection of a 1,000-ton smelter.

Something like forty men are now employed by the Imperial company, new buildings and other conveniences are being provided, and Mr. Lewis believes that dividends will begin by the end of next year. If they do not it will be due to a determination of the company to hold them back pending the building and completion of reduction works.

FROM THE ANNIE LAURIE.

General Manager Huck Speaks of Condition of the Mine.

General Manager L. C. Huck of the Annie Laurie Gold Mining company came up here last night, and today will leave for Denver and his home in Chicago, at which points the contracts for mill and power plant material will be closed up and what few of the mine's condition Mr. Huck spoke in most glowing terms at the Knutsford last evening, feeling at perfect liberty to do so because no one could buy a share of the company's stock, and because he felt proud of the mine which he and his associates have opened during the little more than a year in which they have been in possession.

"For some time past," Mr. Huck said, "we have been connecting up the different tunnel levels through raises made at stated intervals, and in every one of them the ore bodies have proven better than our fondest hopes led us to expect. We have a mine which I consider is a wonder, and somewhere between the first and fifth level of the mine we expect to start up and keep in steady operation our new mill—a mill, by the way, which I am credibly informed is far and away the best of its kind in this state, and probably in the entire west."

"I do know that money has not been spared in the erection, and am assured that it will not be found lacking in efficiency."

Mr. Huck promises to return before the end of next month and stay till the new plant has gone into commission.

OPERATIONS OF NEW COMPANY.

Majestic Is Rapidly Getting Things Moving.

The Majestic Copper company, which recently acquired the famous Old Hickory group of mine patented claims in North Star district, Beaver county, is giving a good account of itself since the launching of the enterprise some two months ago.

Advices from For and Roberts are more encouraging, as he declares that the property, which in the early days produced over $500,000 worth of ore, is still a big thing. Overlapping the copper-gold ores are immense bodies of zinc, carrying some little silver and gold, and together with ores from the D. R. property, in Beaver Lake district, also a part of the Majestic company's holdings, tests are now being made at the instance of Manager Lewis in Denver to determine on a method of treatment.

In the meantime a new hoisting plant is being installed at the latter property and every preparation made for a most active winter's campaign.

NORTHERN LIGHT ACTIVITY.

Quite a Scramble for Shares Yesterday Afternoon.

Northern Light shares were rather active on the exchange yesterday morning at about 2 1/2c, and after call the demand became even greater and brokers were out for it in all directions during the afternoon. Inquiry at the company's offices failed to develop any particular reason for the spurt, and as the price failed to touch the 3c mark in the curb bidding the shares were marked down as being purely professional. The stock is so low, however, that almost any kind of a favorable report from the mine would naturally advance the price a few cents. The mill is not in operation, and it is any new and rich pockets of ore have been encountered the fact is being carefully guarded.

RICH SILVER SHIPMENT.

Ontario Sent East 25,962.25 Ounces on Wednesday.

The first melting of Ontario silver bullion at the Mac-sac mill, Park City, during the month, was concluded on Tuesday last and on Wednesday the product, consisting of twenty-three bars containing 25,962.25 ounces, 1,000 fine, were shipped east. At yesterday's quotations the consignment would bring $17,255.81.

The clean-up was the first since Oct. 22, when a consignment a little below this one in value was forwarded.

Developing Jackson Mine.

(Special to The Herald.)

Ogden, Nov. 16.—The Jackson Mining company, composed mostly of Ogden and Salt Lake men, has just let a contract for a tunnel on their property which is located twenty-eight miles east of Logan. They already have a shaft down thirty feet and have ore that assays from $5 to $8 gold, and is high as 235 ounces silver and 28 per cent copper. H. W. Grant has the contract. The company is soon to increase its capital stock from $200,000 to $700,000. T. F. Rowlands of this city is president.

Three cars of Carlsbad gold ore were on the market yesterday morning.

The Horn Silver had four cars of concentrates on the market yesterday.

The Eagle & Blue Bell was in the market yesterday with a car of nice silver-gold ore.

Two cars of high-grade ore from the George Stomps & Sons' bonanza reached the samplers yesterday.

George B. Earnshaw came in from Bingham yesterday and Mr. Earnshaw registered at the Cullen.

Manager C. B. Mackland of the No-Yu-Don't came in from Stockton yesterday and will remain here tomorrow.

The Taylor & Brington sampler was yesterday in receipt of four cars of ore from the Frisco, four from Frisco, two from Bingham and two from Stockton.

The sixth car of copper-gold bullion from the third of the month was billed out from the Highland Box smelter yesterday. The consignment amounted to 60,000 pounds.

Superintendent R. C. Chambers is in the Park discharging the October pay roll at the Ontario and Daly mines and the Marsac mine. He will probably return tomorrow.

Charles H. Gitsch came down from Park City Thursday night to attend to some mining business, the nature of which he would not divulge. He returns to the Park tomorrow.

A force of men is now busily engaged riveting the big cyanide tanks at the Overland mill at Sunshine, and everything is now said to look favorable to the plant going into commission by the first of the year.

After a tussle with typhoid-pneumonia and resultant complications which has held him to his bed and home for the past three weeks, Manager George Moore of the recently closed gold sampling rooms, is again able to be about. The sampling room had been ordered closed six weeks before Mr. Moore knew anything about it. The numerous friends will be glad to know that he is now gaining strength very rapidly, and hopes to discard his cane within a few days.

WEYER AGAIN ROASTS

Revises the Americans, English and the Cubans.

HE WOULD HAVE WON

EXPLAINS METHOD FOR CRUSHING UNCLE SAM'S TROOPS.

New York, Nov. 16.—A dispatch to the Herald from Paris says: General Weyer has emerged from his shell and fires some hot shot at Anglo-Saxons in general in an interview given to the Figaro's correspondent. He opened by saying that he once more protested against the abominable reputation created for him by the American and English journals for political purposes.

He continued:

"When I was governor-general of Cuba and was defending the sovereignty of Spain in that colony the least of my acts of war was distorted by the press of the English-speaking nations. I never troubled myself about that, for I always did only my duty as a soldier, without lending ear to rumors of what was going on outside my province."

"I have noted since with sorrow that these lying stories, these calumnies, have found an echo in Europe. It has required the events in the Transvaal and the stories of the real cruelties committed upon the Boers by Lord Roberts and the English and European military writers to acknowledge that I never conducted myself in Cuba as the British have done in South Africa. People are now beginning to do me justice."

"The truth of the matter is that I carried on the war in Cuba with the rigor which war requires. You cannot Cuba and the English-speaking nations with rebel and half-civilized negroes like our revolted Cubans, who were accustomed to massacre in horrible fashion, the soldiers they had captured."

"People should have seen our poor Spanish soldiers, those brave little soldiers of 19 and 20 years of age, fighting with the Cubans, to understand the real horror of the task which one would have to have seen the excesses of which the Cubans were guilty in the treatment of their prisoners, to have seen them turning the arms and putting them through a slow martyrdom and mutilating their dead bodies, to understand the peculiar character of that war."

"I am held by the whole Spanish army—the marks of devotion which have always been lavished upon me by my companions in arms, both those in Cuba and those of the normal army."

Explaining his presence in the liberal party General Weyer remarked that it was the result of recent events.

"If Canovas were living I should be at his side. I should be a soldier pure and simple. But there are cases when the safety of one's country obliges one to still one's feelings of repugnance and undertake a task which one would prefer to leave in the hands of others."

Brags of His Ability.

"If I had been able to gather together a strong conservative party after the death of Canovas I should have presented to the king and the head of the Spanish troops which were then in the island, I should have driven the Americans into the sea. The hasty leave of the Americans would have been able to cope with the Spaniards. I should never have asked for a fleet to be sent to me. My resources there (in Cuba) were quite ample."

"General Blanco made terrible mistakes. He concentrated all his troops in Havana. He instead of adopting tactics which would have permitted him to devote his efforts to the points threatened by the Americans. It would have been easy to save Santiago by dispatching there reinforcements at an early stage and with greater rapidity."

"But it is too late now. What's the good of crying over spilt milk? Politics lose us our soldier. No blame whatever can attach to the army. All that it did was to obey orders. It was in no wise responsible for our disaster."

"Today it is necessary for the good of Spain for me to give my assistance and my personal support to a political party which will certainly do so. If the liberal party needs me to reconstruct and undertake a campaign in conformity with its traditions of liberty and progress will give my help to the liberal party, but I am conscious that a politician for six or eight months only. Immediately afterward I will once again become a soldier—that and nothing more."

"It is my opinion that if Marshal Martinez Campos had remained purely and simply a soldier his fame would have been all the greater."

Belittles the Carlists.

So far as the Carlist movement is concerned, General Weyer says it is doomed to failure, particularly in Catalonia.

"Carlistism," said he, "no longer has many partisans in Catalonia, and the reason is this: The peasants and people living in the country were generally and are still more inclined to Carlist ideas than all the rest. Now the greater part of the agricultural districts and particularly the wine-growing districts have become, owing to the revival of the vineyards of France and to the phylloxera which has been prevalent in Spain since 1890, industrial districts. The peasant has become an artisan and from a Carlist he has developed into a socialist republican. Consequently, Don Carlos will not find him inclined to follow his flag."

"I have the present Carlist movement be an absolute failure. If I am mis, ken and there should be a riser, so much the worse. It must be still without loss of moment and with the most pitiless energy. I will see to that."
